1. INTRODUCTION

The action “Integrity Watch in the Western Balkans and Turkey: civil society combating corruption with political integrity data” (henceforth IW WBT) is funded under the EU Civil Society Facility and Media Programme in favor of the Western Balkans and Turkey for 2021-2023 (IPA III) within the lot “Good Governance, Rule of Law and Anti-Corruption”. It is a three-year action funded by the European Commission from March 2023 to February 2026 (IPA/2022/440-922).

2. PROJECT BACKGROUND AND PURPOSE OF THE CALL

This open call is launched in the framework of Integrity Watch project, implemented in Kosovo, Bosnia and Herzegovina, North Macedonia, Serbia and Türkiye. It is a regional initiative in the field of political integrity led by the Kosovo Democratic Institute – Transparency International Kosova in partnership with the Transparency International Secretariat based in Germany, Transparency International in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Transparency International Macedonia, Transparency Serbia and Transparency International Türkiye which compose the Integrity Watch Consortium.

Anti-corruption regional initiatives led by civil society have identified political integrity vulnerabilities as a key corruption challenge across the region in the Western Balkans and Türkiye. The main vulnerabilities allow vested interests (organized crime, corrupt business or corrupt politicians) opportunities to co-opt mechanisms to (i) access power (elections and appointments), (ii) decision making ('tailored laws' and public contracting) and (iii) the judiciary. Lack of data or insufficient use of information on who funds politics, who influences law-making and how public resources are allocated, combined with scarce cooperation between reform-minded actors domestically and across the region, prevents accountability, leaves cases of abuse undetected and directly contributes to high levels of political corruption. Corruption in politics leads to the erosion of citizen trust in decision-making processes. lack of adequate mechanisms to hold politicians accountable for political integrity.

With the goal to empower citizens and civil society actors in Western Balkans (Bosnia and Herzegovina, Kosovo, North Macedonia and Serbia) and Türkiye to hold political office holders to account, IW WBT is focused on the three most relevant areas for anti-corruption and political integrity in the region: the opacity of political finance, the undue influence of vested interests in law-making, and favoritism in public contracting. By using open data on transparency and accountability, the program seeks to strengthen integrity in political financing, legislative decision-making, and public resource allocation, fight political corruption by engaging key civil society actors and oversight institutions and promote democratic governance and citizen engagement. It directly promotes engagement between civil society actors and key oversight, law enforcement and decision-making bodies to i) improve the ability of state authorities, civil society, and media to detect and prevent political corruption risks using open data and to ii) increase domestic and cross-border exchanges among relevant stakeholders in state authorities, civil society, and media to detect, prevent and counter political corruption.

Through this call for applications, prospect applicants are expected to propose creative initiatives that foster use of public data to detect and expose political corruption risks, while advocating for transparency, accountability and integrity in Kosovo.

3. OBJECTIVE, ACTIVITIES AND EXPECTED IMPACT
